BIAS MITIGATING STATEMENTS

- We strongly encourage applications from underrepresented groups in technology, including women, minorities, and LGBTQ+ individuals
- Age is not a determining factor in our hiring decisions - we value experience and fresh perspectives equally
- Career gaps for personal reasons, family care, education, or health are not viewed negatively in our evaluation process
- We welcome candidates from non-traditional educational backgrounds and value diverse learning paths
- Remote work experience and distributed team collaboration skills are considered equally valuable as traditional office experience
- Candidates with disabilities are encouraged to apply - we provide reasonable accommodations throughout the hiring process and employment
- We do not discriminate based on accent, nationality, or English as a second language - clear communication matters more than perfect grammar

- Self-taught skills and bootcamp graduates are valued equally alongside traditional computer science degrees
- We recognize that imposter syndrome may prevent qualified candidates from applying - if you meet 70% of the requirements, we encourage you to apply
